

Sample Letter to Send to Open-Minded Associates Who are Likely Allies in your Local Wind Energy Fight

Dear _____:

John Droz, jr. is a physicist in North Carolina who is offering free help to committed citizens fighting the industrial wind energy scourge.

For example, he offered to assist us in quantifying the likely net yearly local financial losses from our wind project.

His useful website is WiseEnergy.org (AWED: Alliance for Wise Energy Decisions). Pay particular attention to the Key Documents page which has a wealth of valuable information that we intend to use.

I also recommend that all our group members sign up for his periodic free Newsletter which complements the website by providing the latest worthwhile wind energy education material. It is such a superior resource that there are over 10,000 subscribers!

To sign-up, simply email John at aaprjohn@northnet.org to ask for the Newsletter. Make sure you tell him your state and town address, as that is how he keeps track of people.

Let me know any questions. Thank you for your interest!

Gratefully,

XXX
